GROVER CLEVELAND, 22nd & 24th PRESIDENT

Grover Cleveland, well known for his enjoyment of the outdoors, good food and beverages spent his summers duck hunting and fishing while staying at the Idlewild Hotel in Manomet Bluffs. In 1884, he began his first term as the 22nd President of the United States. While serving this term, then in his fifties, he caused quite a stir by marrying Frances Folson, age 21. He lost his re-election bid to Benjamin Harrison in part through the efforts of the Prohibition League that campaigned against his life style. In between his terms, in 1890, he purchased the above parcel to build his own summer cottage. Later he was returned to office, becoming the only President to be elected for non-consecutive terms. After his second term, in 1897, the President and his wife, then living in Buzzards Bay, sold the property. Please note the unusual deed restriction within this document.
